HOUSTON'S CELEBRATED BEAUTY CULTURIST IS A MARKED SUCCESS HAS BURNED "MIDNIGHT OIL"

Madame N. A. Franklin-McCoy

Any person that can make a human being look better and feel better is a benefactor to society. Few people realize the magnitude and far-reaching beneficial effect of the Madame Franklin School of Beauty Culture, which operates a downtown parlor at 805 Prairie Avenue, this city.

Scattered throughout the republic are thousands of women of the race representing the Franklin System, both as graduates and agents.

This, no doubt, may seem rather surprising to the average person, but the true cause of Madame Franklin's wonderful success is due to the fact that her system of instructions that are put up by her own hands have stood the test, and her satisfied customers are numbered in the hundreds of thousands throughout America and some of the islands of the sea.

Despite the high cost of ingredients and shortage and scarcity of the materials employed in the manufacture of her preparations, Madame Franklin has religiously and steadfastly refused to substitute quantity for quality, neither has she increased her prices on the well known goods that have proven a boon to the women of her race.

Houstonians are proud and appreciate Madame Franklin, who has made it possible for 107 colored women in Houston alone, with limited education, to cease a life of drudgery and become the architects of their own fate, at the same time earning a decent living with lucrative salaries; many of them establishing well paying beauty shops and hair dressing emporiums.

Madame Franklin has also brought beauty culture in easy reach of the members of her race, who were hitherto unable financially to afford such treatment and she has likewise made it possible for thousands of her race, both men and women, to improve their looks. Employing the old scholastic phrase, the madame "burner the midnight oil," persevered, labored indefatigably, realizing that "labor conquers all things" and thus today she is a marked success.

In the way of caution to her many thousands of customers the madame says that she realizes that the ever-increasing success of her system and preparations could not fail to inspire envy, and some, that are not prepared and can not create resort to unskilled and crude imitations. She therefore cautions her numerous customers to refuse all substitutes and supposed imitations and insist on the genuine Mme. N. A. Franklin products—that have stood the test and now have a national reputation.

She also operates a first-class Beauty Parlor and school of Beauty Culture at 305 E. 9th street, Fort Worth, Texas, where those wanting the Franklin service can get same at all times and learn the course at will.
